NASS Dues and Staff

Sometime after 1939, NASS instituted dues of $100 a year for each state member. They were paid to the NASS treasurer who could deposit them in a bank he saw fit. In 1968, dues were increased to $200 a year for each state, and in 1975, they were increased to $225 a year. At the 1984 annual conference, it was decided to change the dues to a sliding scale and states would be put in one of four groups determined by population. The smallest group of states would pay $350 a year; the next group $400; the next group $450; and the largest states $500. By 1990, the smallest states paid $500; the next group $572; the next group $644; and the largest $715.

The following year, 1991, dues were increased to: $1,000, $1,500, $2,000 and $2,500, according to the four groupings. Dues continued to increase each year in the 1990s according to inflation. By 2000, the dues were $1,266; $1,900; $2,530; and $3,165, and in 2004, they were $1,367; $2,054; $2,735; and $3,426. The dues for 2018-2019 are:

NASS Staff

From the first NASS conference in 1915 through the sixtieth conference in 1977, the Association had no paid staff. At the sixtieth conference in San Juan, Puerto Rico, the members brought before the convention a proposal to hire a part-time executive director and to provide facilities and office space in Washington, DC. These items were referred to the executive board for consideration at the next meeting. All matters relating to each annual conference were the responsibility of the host Secretary and the NASS President. A financial report given at the 1979 annual conference showed that NASS had received $10,800 from 48 state membership dues of $225 apiece. The NASS proposed budget for 1979–1980 was $12,000. In 1982, representatives of the Council of State Governments made a presentation to NASS members regarding an association with NASS. In 1984, dues remained at $225 for each state and NASS had $9,016 in its account. Ten years later, in 1994, NASS dues amounted to $103,500, and the fund balance was $227,285. At the 1999 annual conference in St. Louis, lengthy discussion ensued regarding moving the NASS office from Lexington, Kentucky to the nation's capital. In 2000 following a recommendation from a special committee chaired by Secretary of State Scott Moore of Nebraska, the NASS office was moved to Washington, DC where it is located today with five staff members.
